

Cold Frosty Morning

A study for 5-string chromatic dulcimer

Chord-Melody

NOTE: Meant to be played using the lower-toned 4 strings; no use of the melody string.

arr06: Jeff Rocchio

$\text{♩} = 80$

Am G G

Am G Am

Am G G

Am C D E Am G Am

NOTES

- * This is meant to be played on the four lower-toned strings - so no use of the melody string.
- * This arrangement was initially based on a Baritone part that appears in Cold-Frosty-Morning_arr05_ADO, the arranger of which is unknown to me.
- * The historical origin of Cold Frosty Morning is unknown. There are some other tunes with similar titles, but they are not this song. For a thread on this see: <https://www.banjohangout.org/archive/306080>
- ** IS this really still Cold Frosty Morning? Or did I mess around with it so much that it really isn't the same tune?

Cold Frosty Morning

A study for 5-string chromatic dulcimer

Simple Melody (from Baritone part in arr05)

arr06: Jeff Rocchio

♩ = 80

Am G

Am G Am

Am G

Am C D E Am G Am

NOTES

- * This is meant to be played on the four lower-toned strings - so no use of the melody string.
- * This arrangement was initially based on a Baritone part that appears in Cold-Frosty-Morning_arr05_ADO, the arranger of which is unknown to me.
- * The historical origin of Cold Frosty Morning is unknown. There are some other tunes with similar titles, but they are not this song. For a thread on this see: <https://www.banjohangout.org/archive/306080>
- ** IS this really still Cold Frosty Morning? Or did I mess around with it so much that it really isn't the same tune?